Ap.esse spa, a leader in system design and point of sale automation solutions for the last 30 years, widens its horizons and continues its growth by acquiring a majority stake in ESC Software srl.

ESC Software with its headquarters in Catania was founded in 1991 by Giuseppe Rizzo, following years of experience in programming business management software. ESC Software has a team of young engineers actively working on the design and development of new solutions that match the ever evolving requirements of the market.

As laid down in its business plan for 2023-2025, Apesse continues with its efforts and investments to strengthen its own Cloud platform with the integration of new software services designed to support its partners in the important areas of remote updating, managing and monitoring of fiscal cash registers.

Enzo Baratto, President of AP.esse, commented "For us, the development of more sophisticated RT services in Cloud is the true added value that allows us to offer ever more innovative and leading edge solutions. Our investment in the potential of ESC Software gives us a strong boost in the right direction. The next step in the immediate future is the expansion of the Catania offices, followed by an increase in the staff complement."

With its brand Axon Mirelec, Ap.esse, offers innovative solutions for the automation of the cash points and the management of the entire processes present in the entire production and distribution chain, and is considered a leader in the Italian market. The vast portfolio of products, that ranging from Touch Screen POS Systems, Fiscal Cash Registers as well as new self-service modular kiosks together with the experience gained and strengthened in the Retail industry, our dynamic business structure and highly qualified employees allow us to offer specialized and focused solutions that have market and consumer trends as their starting point and that over time guarantee excellent performance and added value.
